PREFACE.

In submitting this BOOK OF ILLUSTRATIONS to our friends and patrons, we do not deem it necessary to add much by way of words, the pictures speak for themselves and serve the purpose for which the book is issued; viz, to give a few hints and suggestions, as to the various styles, effects and combinations of colors, that may be obtained by using our Liquid Paints. Many people have an idea that in painting with two colors, you should always paint the body of the house with the lighter color and trim with the darker, but some of the plates in this book show that very pleasing effects may be produced by painting the body of the house with the darker and trimming with the lighter shade, or even with white. We think that these plates show plainly that a house is never finished until the roof is painted. We recommend the painting of roofs, not only for improvement in appearance; but, also for preservation from decay and protection from fire.

We wish to say a few words regarding the quality of our Liquid Paints. We started with a determination to give our customers the best that could be made. To gain a reputation and maintain it! Our first paints were good, but we continued to improve them through our first and second years and with the beginning of our third year, we made our Paints of such a quality that we have not been able to improve them and we Challenge the World to produce a better House Paint than our Liquid Paints now are. They are made from Pure Carbonate of Lead and Pure Oxide of Zinc and no other pigment, except the coloring matter required to produce the different shades. Pure Lead alone will powder, Pure Zinc alone will peel, combined in proper proportions, each counteracts the others poor qualities, and we have so combined Lead and Zinc in our Liquid Paints, that they are absolutely the best House Paints it is possible for man to make!!!

Many Painters have a prejudice against Liquid Paints, and it is well founded, for there have been a great many miserable mixtures, palmed off on the public, under the name of liquid paints. We do not expect to convince the skeptical, simply by our assertions as printed here, all we ask of anyone is to try the Paints and let them speak for themselves. Give them a fair trial on a clean, dry surface. If you buy the paints when they have stood in a store for a long time, you will find that the Lead and Zinc have settled to the bottom, in which case always scrape the Lead and Zinc from the bottom and see that they are thoroughly re-mixed, that being done the paints will never fail to give satisfaction. Some paints are recommended because they hold their pigments in suspension and do not settle. Such paints are Zinc Paints in a chemical or soap mixture. Our Liquid Paints do not contain any chemicals! Lead will settle in Oil and should be thoroughly re-mixed every time it is used.

Our Liquid Paints being of such superior quality, they cannot be sold at the same price as the many poorer Paints on the market, but we believe the great majority of people will be willing to pay the higher price for the better article.
